What are "Cookies" and how do we use them?

A cookie is a small text file placed on your computer when you visit a web site. This file gives your computer a unique identification. There are two types of cookies:

1. Session cookies exist only for as long as your browser remains open. After you exit your browser, these cookies go away.
2. Persistent cookies last from visit to visit. When you return to a web site that uses persistent cookies, the cookie associates your computer with information the web site maintains for validating User ID and Password information from previous visits.

To enhance your ability to gain validated access to LPS KeyShipExpress secured area functions, we are using persistent cookies which last from visit to visit. The cookie is valid and available for one day and then expires. It is used to facilitate 'automatic' sign-in access to Find Rates.
